

Table of Contents

p.	9	Preface by Umberto Vattani
	13	Introduction
19		Chapter 1
		Buddhism and the Sōka Gakkai. A “New” Religion for Peace
	1.1.	The Buddhist Galaxy: from Siddhārtha Gautama to the Diferent Buddhism Schools, 19
	1.2.	Nichiren Buddhism: the Importance of “Value Creation”, 34
	1.3.	Between Nichiren and the Sōka Gakkai: The History of the Nichiren Shōshū (XIII-XIX centuries), 43
	1.4.	From the Nichiren Shōshū to the Sōka Gakkai (1930-1960), 46
67		Chapter 2
		Sōka Gakkai and Daisaku Ikeda. The International Expansion and Worldwide Kōsen-Rufu
	2.1.	The Young Ikeda: Toda’s Right Hand (1947-1958), 67
	2.2.	The Ikeda Presidency: The Globalist President and the Worldwide Expansion, 74
	2.3.	The Divisions of Diplomacy, 88
	2.4.	The “Phase Two” of Sōka Gakkai: Less Religion, More Pacifist Activism, 104

p.	111	Chapter 3
		Daisaku Ikeda's Peace Proposals and Other Sōka Gakkai Interventions in International Politics
		3.1. The Heart of Sōka Gakkai's Message: Promoting a "Human Revolution", 111
		3.2. The Sōka Gakkai International: from the 1975 Guam Conference to the First Peace Proposals, 114
		3.3. Peace, Disarmament, Non-Violence at the United Nations: the Peace Proposals Contributes to the Peace-Building Process, 120
		3.4. Nuclear Disarmament and Arms Reduction, 133
		3.5. The Reform of the UN, 150
		3.6. Cosmopolitanism and Global Government, 158
	165	Conclusion
	173	Bibliography
	197	Acknowledgements